DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because line 12 contains claim language (i.e. means) therefore, correction is required.
See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 6-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 6, the limitation "a certain external pressure" is not clear. The limitation is unclear as to what type of pressure the invention is describing. The applicant has not defined what this "certain" pressure is since there are many different pressures in the art of pressure sensing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 6-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ochiai (US 6719569).

Regarding claims 6-24 Ochiai teaches a non-conductive intermediate elastic sheet 1 having a plurality of holes 111 through it, two sheets with inner conductive faces 2 backing onto both sides of said intermediate sheet (fig. 1) so that they cover at least said holes leaving the respective inner conductive faces facing each other through said holes (fig. 1), so that when a certain external pressure (stresses interpreted as pressure) (abstract) is applied on said device it is deformed such that said inner conductive faces establish a conductive contact (fig. 6a) between them through one or more of said holes 11, therefore forming at least one conductive circuit 3 5 (abstract); and at least one of the conductive faces is distributed by conductive areas, each of them covering (fig. 6a) one or more of said holes 11 depending on whether more or less accuracy is desired (abstract), respectively, regarding the location of the hole through which said conductive contact has been made.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US documents 4933660, 4914416, 5014224, 5060527 disclose multi layered sensors.
